The cars are nearly getting on their feet on account of the hot weather.

Some inducements should be offered to Sullivan and "Tag" Wilson, to go to Princeton and try their strength on the students.

There will be no reduction of taxation made by this Congress. The Republicans introduced the measure, but the Democrats, adhering to their old custom, resist any measure for the relief of the people, and the matter goes over.

If the English could only get the Egyptians to use the toy pistol, the Arabi's forces would soon be reduced to nothing.

The Malley boys since they were acquitted of the murder of Jennie Cramer, are taking in the fashionable summer resorts. As bad and cheeky as that is, it is an improvement on lecturing.

The son of the eloquent and learned Edward Everett Hale gives much promise of future greatness. He is learning how to be a mechanic in a machine shop at Taunton, Massachusetts.

Dr. Edward Emerson, son of the late Ralph Waldo Emerson, is a practicing physician at Concord. He reports, however, and will now devote the rest of his time to the study of literature.

The Denver Methodists showed their good sense the other Sunday in refusing to allow the Rev. Gilbert De La Maty, the ex-congressman from the Indiana district, to occupy a pulpit in that city. A man who became so utterly carried away by the greenback craze cannot be sound on religion, and should not be allowed to preach.

It is said that for the purposes of taxation, Judge Sovereign, of Manitowish, Wisconsin, recently returned his law library as being worth $1,000, but the common council said that it was worth no more than $400, and taxed the judge accordingly. The humorous point to this is that the common council should presume to pass an opinion as to the value of books.

Formal announcement has been made of the appointment of Mr. H. C. Atkins, as assistant general superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway. The Milwaukee Republican Sentinel says that at the time Mr. Atkins withdrew his resignation it was rumored that his position on the St. Paul road would be changed, and the change would consist in a promotion of this nature. The circular will be issued to-morrow, and Mr. Atkins will be placed in charge of all of the divisions east of the Mississippi, including also the Council Bluffs Division, of which Mr. Earling is superintendent. Several of the officials whose positions, it is understood, are immediately subordinate to Mr. Atkins, will receive corresponding promotions to division superintendencies.

Miss Fannie Parnell, sister of Charles Stewart Parnell, member of the British Parliament, was buried at Bordentown, New Jersey, on Monday. The untimely death of Miss Parnell will be deeply regretted by many thousands. A few years ago when the old Parnell homestead at Avondale Manor experienced a domestic revolution, Fannie went with her mother to taste the insipid giddiness of Parisian life, while Anna, her sister, stayed at home to care for her father. While in Paris she seemed to have lost the enthusiasm for Ireland which made her brother Charles and her sister Anna so famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Eventually she found her way on this side of the water, being half American by blood, and joined in the movement here to help Ireland. She was personally very attractive, and a young lady of remarkable beauty.

Not far from Erie, Pennsylvania, lives a young lady who had a spinal difficulty, and for three years she was more or less confined to her bed. She imagined that if played for by her friends at a certain hour, she would recover. Her physician accordingly arranged for prayers, thought he did, to take place on Sunday evening at eight o'clock. He had to leave town, however, and intrusted the sacred duty to a friend who promised to see that arrangements for prayers should be fully carried out. The physician informed his patient that prayers would be offered at eight o'clock on Sunday, and she seemed confident that they would effect cure. The friend to whom the doctor intrusted this important matter, forgot to properly attend to it, and therefore at the appointed hour, no prayers were offered, but the young lady did not know of the failure, and presuming that prayers were made according to arrangement, felt so well a few minutes past eight that she rose from her bed and walked down stairs! When the man who promised to attend to the prayers, thought of his neglect sometime after eight, he hastened to the house of the afflicted girl, but to his surprise he found her playing the piano! When he told her that no prayers had been offered, she was astonished, of course, and could not explain how it was that she rose from her bed and walked.

MINNEAPOLIS FIRE.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 24.—About 6 o'clock this evening an incendiary fire broke out in the lumber yard of the Minneapolis Mill company, in this city, and it kept burning. It is so far estimated that 3,000,000 feet of lumber, mostly clear, is burned, on which the loss is about $50,000; insurance $30,000. A portion of the burned lumber was piled in close proximity to the gas works. As an explosion was imminent the gas was turned into the river about 9 o'clock, leaving the city in darkness. The loss to the gas company is not yet ascertained. The fire is believed to be under control.

DREADFUL BUTCHERY.

They were employed on the New Orleans and Northern railroad, and had just been paid and were bound home. One negro has been arrested and another is being hunted up on a strong suspicion of having murdered and robbed the men and placed their bodies on the track.

THE TELEPHONE.

Appleton, July 21.—The telephone line from this place to Green Bay was completed Saturday night. As the line from Fond du Lac to this city was finished over a month ago, there is connection between all the towns on the Lower Fox River. FIRE AT WAUKESHA.

The Methodist House of Worship at Waukesha Destroyed.

WAUKESHA, July 24.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon a fire started in the Mansion House barn, owned by Joseph Gleissner. The blaze was discovered by W. H. Holbrook, of the Mansion House, and so immediately sounded the alarm. The local fire department at once responded, but the fire was soon beyond their control.

The chemical engines were useless and the fire spread to the Methodist Church on South street, and to the rear of the Mansion House. The flames and the heat of the latter place at once turned their attention to removing their effects and the furniture of the hotel. The fire had a good start, and the Industrial School Department worked heroically to subdue it. By the time they had accomplished this at the Mansion House the Methodist Church was in flames, and their loss was transferred to the locality of the building. The hose burst and occasioned some delay. By the time the break was repaired the fire had gained such headway in the building that it was completely gutted. The flames at this juncture had secured a new hold on the Mansion House, and the firemen were again compelled to return and subdue it. At one time it looked as if the entire central portion of the village would go, and the Milwaukee Department was appealed to for aid, which was promptly furnished. Several attempts have been made to have the Village Board authorize the purchase of a steam fire-engine, but the body has always refused to sanction the scheme, but it is thought possible that they will at once hold a meeting and authorize an election for the purpose of voting funds for the purchase of an engine.

THE NEWS IN MILWAUKEE.

The news of the fire was received in Milwaukee at about 4 o'clock. President Curney, of the Waukesha Village Board, sending the following telegram to Mayor Stowell and Chief Lippert: "Send two steamers with all possible dispatch to St. Louis, Wis., and Milwaukee, to take the bodies of the deceased and the business portion of town threatened with total destruction." Engine No. 1 and 6, with the full complement of men and horses, in charge of Assistant Chief Engineer Black, were sent to Waukesha by special train over the St. Paul Road. The train made the run in twenty minutes, in 20 minutes the fastest time ever made on the La Crosse or Prairie du Chien divisions. The engines were not unloaded at Waukesha.

CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—A member of the House Committee on Elections said this evening that he did not think the committee would report any more election cases to the House this session, and he did not believe the committee would report at any time any more cases to the House. The colored contestant in the case of Leo against Richardson from the First South Carolina District, is very clamorous since the seating of Smalls to have his case also reported and considered this session; but, in Chairman Calkins' present state of mind, there is no likelihood that Mr. Leo will ever get a favorable report. The case of Breckinridge against Manning, of the Second Mississippi District, is in the same category, and may be dismissed this session. Chairman Calkins, who has taken a sudden flop from the extreme partisanship to the middle ground, is now endeavoring to report the case of Sissingshous against Frost, although there is a clear majority of his committee in favor of the contestant. Mr. Calkins' sudden change is subject of a good deal of unfavorable comment and grumbling on the Republican side. The failure of the committee to report the cases of Sissingshous against Frost, which is undoubtedly a good one, is wholly attributed to the course of Mr. Calkins, who declares he will not bring up any more of these cases. He attempts to assign a plausible cause for his course, but not the real one, which is better understood in his district. Mr. Calkins has the support of a large independent Democratic element at home, and the fact that he took such a prominent part in the Mackey case, and the methods adopted to have it considered, was very severely criticised by this class of his supporters. Hence his vote in the Smalls case and his subsequent conduct in the contested election cases.

Always Refreshing.

A delicious odor is imparted by Floreston-Cologne, which is always refreshing, no matter how freely used.

From the Antipodes.

From the San Francisco Daily Alta. W. W. Cole's New mammoth Circus made a grand parade through the streets yesterday—a more picturesque display than when the establishment visited us at the first. Its calliope sent its steam music everywhere. Last night it opened at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, with to quote the words of the advertisements "a perfect flood of majestic marvels." The attendance was a crusher. There is no more popular amusement in the United States than the circus, and a good one is always sure of a crush—and, again, there are a great many new features that Cole has been smart enough to acquire during his visit to the Antipodes, and these have freshened the ordinary program. To such an extent that a second or third viewing has all the charms of novelty. Among the more notable features in the terrific aerial bicyclist. Mlle. Addie d'Almeida, whose performances are marvellous. The menagerie has been reinforced by the addition of a white bear and some Australian kangaroos, rare birds, a troop of South Sea savages and Maori war dancers, who appear in their primitive costumes, its real Arabian athletes and a thousand other new attractions. Cole will pitch his city of tents in Janesville on Tuesday, August 15th.

Mammoth Cave.

Bishop Warren gives this vivid description of the great cave: "One's general idea of a cave is that of an open space under ground, or in a mountain side. Mammoth Cave is made up of passages, avenues, and tortuous crooks rather than of vast open spaces. You can take the short route (seven miles), to be done in two hours, the long (sixteen miles), to be done in four, twelve or more. We choose the combined. There are avenues down which one could drive a coach and four if fairly cleared up on the floor. There are places that are mere cracks, justly named 'fat man's misery,' 'tall man's amazement,' and 'corkscrews.' Here is the River Styx, Lake Letha and Echo River, running under an arch so low that a little rise in the water renders passage impossible. Sometimes it rises unexpectedly and leaves parties in the dark beyond the darkness unable to return till the water subsides. I saw the eyeless fish of those dark rivers; their principal use in this world being to serve Dr. Bushnell for an illustration in his sermon on 'extirpation of unused faculties.' Here and there amid these long passages are open spaces called 'domes,' where the water-carved rock rises ninety, or a hundred, or a hundred and thirty feet from the floor. When these places are lighted up by the brilliant Bengal lights they are both weird and grand. The variety of formations in the cave surpasses anything I have ever witnessed. In most caves the stalactites and stalagmite systems are easily understood, but the lower ends are delicately grooved in various directions, by what process it is impossible to imagine. In some of the passages the stalagmites are variously sized gutters, as delicately cut as those of the Greeks on the Parthenon.

In some parts of the cave the gypsum has crystallized into snow-balls that glitter over the whole roof; in other places there are delicate flowers, some eight inches in diameter. The stalactite pillars are comparatively few, but exceedingly curious. In one place half a dozen form a kind of bower in which four couples have been married. The first bride had promised her mother not to be married while she lived on earth. A very to keep it, and also got married.

The Chicago Tribune says, "Plows are advancing." Who ever heard of plows going backward? A Fair Exchange. Will you exchange a chronic case of Dyspepsia, or agree to break up a Bilious Temperament—to give your torpid Liver activity, and thus strengthen your Digestion, regain energy, health and spirits, all for free?
